Five years ago, players had to scribble and scramble to make entry deadlines for tennis tournaments.

Now, a computer can do it all without any unforced errors as tennis leaps into the electronic age.

The Colorado Tennis Association has introduced Touch Tone Tennis, a computer system for leagues and tournaments where players can register by phone.

Touch Tone Tennis was developed by the Intermountain Tennis Association and the CTA went fully on line in January.

"You can call on the phone and register for any of the sanctioned tournaments held in that state that are participating in the system, which is about 60% of all the tournaments," CTA media coordinator Lee Hart said. "You have to use the system to register for any of the leagues which we (CTA) run. We're the first ones in the country to have it. There are other sections of the United States Tennis Association that are interested in buying it from us."

Players call Touch Tone Tennis (755-0455 or 1-800-574-8782) and punch in their USTA membership number. The computer verifies the caller's National Tennis Rating Program rating. If a player is not rated, the computer will flag the entry and suggest the caller obtain one. Callers pay for their tournament or league registrations by using a Visa or MasterCard. A confirmation number is then given to the player to verify registration.

Any time during the call, a player can be connected directly to a CTA staff member or leave a message and request a return call.

"For tournaments it's really great," Hart said. "Most of our people spend a lot of time driving across town at the last minute to get their registrations in and now they can just pick up the phone. We piloted one tournament and league registration last fall. From there we made some corrections and adjustments. When we piloted a league, we chose a senior league for players 50 and older. We wanted to see how it went and they were tickled. We sold it the right way to even the older folks who you might expect to be a little reluctant to use that type of technology."

"We just finished our first league registration with the completed version of Touch Tone Tennis. It went real smoothly with the exception of some human errors by the callers, like forgetting to press the star button."

Touch Tone Tennis has also helped tournament directors. Touch Tone Tennis has a bridge program which directly interfaces with TMS draw software. The computer will make tournament draws and can schedule times and courts for matches.

"The key result is the computer saves a lot of paper work," said

Ginger R. DeMille

Colorado State tennis coach Jon Messick, a CTA board member who directs the CSU Open each August in Fort Collins. "A tournament director can spend more time promoting the tournament, getting sponsors and servicing the players. I compare it to a microwave. Before I got one, I figured I didn't need one. Now, I don't know what I'd do without it."

Three players who met on a USTA League team - Ed Allburn, Dave Eaton and Steve Campbell - are piloting a bulletin board system to make it easier to obtain tennis information.

Tennis BBS currently is free for users who call 680-7656 to access the bulletin board system. Allburn is working with several Denver area tennis clubs to provide computers so members can dial Tennis BBS.

"We're bringing tennis to the information super highway," Allburn said. "Anybody with any computer and a modem can dial us. In general, it's a very thorough information center on anything that deals with tennis especially in Colorado . . . whether it's special events that are going on, TV listings on what tournaments are on TV and what channels they are on or information on tournaments, leagues and local news."

IN CASE YOU MISSED THE RE-cent Dayton Daily News -Montgomery County Open Tennis Tournament, there is an easy way to get information on every player and score in every division.

Log onto www.tennisinformation.com and not only will you find the draw sheets for the July 15-23 County, but the Montgomery County Jr. Open (July 7-9) and the recently completed Midwest Girls' 16s in Springfield (July 23-28) as well as about 400 tournaments nationwide.

"We started this as a grass-roots Web site," said Doug Wrege, who along with wife Julie and son Shannon founded Serius Software a few years ago mainly to help Julie operate the various tournaments she runs.

Serius developed the Tournament Management System (TMS) that will make up draw sheets in minutes and even schedule playing times - including the ability to schedule players in multiple events.

Originally, Serius charged individual customers for their services, but the USTA bought in as a service for member clubs - anyone with a USTA membership can use the software and post any tournament, from a national event to a club outing, for free.

"It's unique," Wrege said. "We built the software and added an easy way to be able to publish stuff to the Web. All you have to do is have an active Internet connection. We have a Web site that's pretty huge. We have millions of match results and thousands of rankings.

"The Web site changes daily- even hourly - if the tournament directors get their results in. We serve about 5 million pages a month."

Wrege, who lives in Marietta, Ga., outside of Atlanta, used to work in government (computer) contracting until the Atlanta office was closed and he was asked to move to Minnesota.

Declining, he began fiddling around with tennis software less than a decade ago.

He also has software for the smaller racquetball and squash establishment.

In addition to the USTA contract, Serius has only recently hired a marketing person to sell advertising on the site.

Sandy Thurman, who ran the County, used TMS to make his draw sheets and with the help of Charlie Painter, posted the results daily on the web.

Painter had earlier used the TMS to make his draw sheets for junior tournaments.

"I used to spend an hour and a half on three or four nights typing in tournament entries," Painter said.

"With TMS, I can enter a tournament in about 40 minutes. It makes things so much easier."

Ginger R. DeMille

Thurman said he will post the results of the Sept. 2-4 Michelob Tournament on the Web when it is played, and next summer will post not only the County and Michelob, but the YMCA Open, too.

Thurman is also considering the ramifications of making those tournaments USTA-sanctioned.

"Most of the people who play in them now are USTA members, but some are not," Thurman said. "If we make them sanctioned tournaments, some people will not join the USTA to play, but we'll get others from a bigger area who want to play in a sanctioned event."

USTA memberships are $13 for juniors, $25 for adults and $40 for families. There are also reduced rates for multiple years.

Another benefit of becoming a sanctioned event would be the ability to use Touch Tone Tennis to enter tournaments, eliminating the need for entry blanks.

Using Touch Tone, a player would only have to make a telephone call and enter any tournament through a touch tone process.

JUNIOR PLAY STARS

Jessica Kirkland and Justin Kronauge are continuing to do well in summer junior play. Kirkland recently finished third in the girls' hardcourts for 12-and-younger in Alpharetta, Ga.

She lost to eventual winner Lindsay Burdette of Jackson, Ga. Caroline Wald of Dayton also played in that tournament, compiling a 2-2 record.

Kronauge finished fifth in the boys' 12s at Alameda, Calif.

...to CEO Gary Haroian.

Stratus announced last fall that it was getting into the LAN server business with a system called Radio based on Intel Corp. chips.

Market melee

These are...

... traditional rivals such as Tandem Computers, Inc. that provide hardware fault tolerance. Stratus also must match up against Unix server vendors that promise various levels of crash-resistant systems.

"They have had tremendous pricing pressure for a long time," said analyst Jim Johnson, chairman of The Standish Group International, Inc. in Dennis, Mass. Johnson said Stratus was in danger of becoming a "totally uncompetitive" niche player.

Rolling out the Continuum 400 series should help the company, especially with Stratus' traditional customer...

... said Jay Bretzmann, an analyst at International Data Corp. in Framingham, Mass.

The Continuum 400 servers will be available in June at $65,700 for a uniprocessor model with full hardware...

The introduction of electronic dart machines has also brought with it certain problems. Among these are: 1) permitting the...tournament database is not only held at league machine 12, but is shared with the electronic dart machines 14 that form part of league and tournament system 10. It' s Opening Day in many cities for Major League Baseball, and often that means it is time to party. Even teachers look the other way when students trade schoolbooks and desks for ticket stubs and seats at the ballpark.

But not here.

At Tropicana Field, where the Tampa Bay Devil Rays begin their season this afternoon against the Toronto Blue Jays, the occasion is more subdued. Thousands of seats will go unsold, and the chatter that accompanies Opening Day in many places is absent.

Perhaps that 's understandable. The Rays have never come close to a winning season since joining the big leagues in 1998 , and they have been playing exhibition games before local fans for the past month.

It is the only big-league team that holds spring training in the same city in which it plays. That is a great convenience for the staff and players , but it also means fans have gotten used to having them around.

"From a baseball standpoint, there are clearly some benefits (to training here)," said David J. Auker, the Rays' senior vice president of business operations. "On the business side of things, there are some good things to that, too things like increased (media) coverage. But there are some unique...

...school districts in southwest Ohio will give students an excused absence if they produce a ticket stub from the game.

"It's the biggest day of the year in Cincinnati baseball. If you are in Cincinnati and didn' t know better, you'd think it was a national holiday. Kids fill the stands because they get out of school if they come to the game," said Reds pitcher Danny Graves, who graduated from Brandon High School.

"They sell out Opening Day in 11 minutes how unbelievable is that? And where else do you have a parade for a baseball team opening the season? It makes the players feel special because the fans are so unbelievable. It is a baseball holiday."

Ginger R. DeMille

Most of the impact can be found in the increase in club programs in the area that are allowing players to compete and be coached at an earlier...

...easier because of the physical differences between boys and girls. While there will be exceptions to the rule, boys soccer players generally develop a lot physically more during their high school years than their girls counterparts, meaning that what you get in a players freshman year will not be all that different from the player in her senior season.

"The freshmen that step on...

Summary of the Invention:

...This invention relates primarily to electronic video poker games, and more particularly to electronic video poker games that are based on draw poker. Conventional video draw poker is a single player game in which the player does not play against a dealer or other players, but rather merely tries to achieve the highest possible ranking poker hand. After an initial deal of five cards, the player is allowed to discard and replace unwanted cards with replacement cards. Electronic video poker games use poker hand rankings to determine winning combinations and a payout schedule is used to determine the amount awarded to the player for achieving a winning combination. The present invention has many variations based on the common thread that any cards from the initial deal that match in card rank are stacked together and counted as one card during the initial stage...

A report on the tournament's Web site said play "has been postponed until further notice because of persistent rain."

Among the players unable to continue matches was the No. 3 seed, Guillermo Coria of Argentina, who was two points away from winning a five-set marathon against South Africa's Wesley Moodie. Others due to resume rain-delayed matches included American Andy Roddick, who was leading Taiwan's Yeu-Tzoo Wang in the first set.

Defending men's champion Roger Federer of Switzerland and seventh- seeded Lleyton Hewitt of Australia were among others scheduled to play Wednesday.

Forty-seven-year-old Martina Navratilova of the United States awaited her second-round match against Argentina's Gisela Dulko, who beat the veteran at the French Open.
